composer

An extensible open-core platform and “super-app” designed to be your team’s second brain

Built for both real time and async collaboration, Composer helps teams build and organize knowledge, and create customizable AI-driven workflows — all in one modular, composable workspace.

VISION

Any team or organization that fails to fully integrate AI into every aspect of their operations will become irrelevant.

We need to completely rethink how software integrates AI agents with users, their information, and current and changing business practices.

DXOS is developing technologies and applications that help people make sense of their data and build intelligence into their workflows.
